This includes assets from the Grand Theft Auto series being used without permission.

The content confirms that the user knows they do not have authorization to post these assets. As the parent company of Rockstar Games, Inc., Take-Two holds copyrights and/or exclusive online reproduction, distribution, and public performance rights in the titles.

On behalf of Take-Two, we demand that you immediately and permanently remove from your service all copies of this content. This includes the copies available at the link given, as well as any other copies that you are hosting.

You can take simple steps to avoid intellectual property rights violations by using readily-available, industry-standard content recognition technology to prevent infringing content from being made available by your service. This technology can both prevent unauthorized uploads of copyrighted content and can ensure that the same content that has been removed from your service at the request of a copyright owner is not re-hosted by your service. We also request that you keep track of subscribers/account holders engaging in intellectual property infringement, to take appropriate action such as terminating the accounts of repeat infringers, which is another way to minimize future violations.

This email is not a complete statement of Take-Two's rights in connection with this matter, and nothing contained herein constitutes an express or implied waiver of any rights, remedies, or defenses of Take-Two in connection with this matter, all of which are expressly reserved.

I have a good faith belief that use of the copyrighted works in the manner described herein is not authorized by Take-Two, its agent, or the law. I confirm under penalty of perjury that I am authorized to act on Take-Two's behalf in connection with this notice. The information in this notice is accurate.

Sincerely,

Fairnotice
